

CCI Gateway is the controlled interoperability and migration boundary between CCI-native identity and existing numbered communications. It is not the identity root. The figure shows architecture, not capability status.